Akubra's Heritage Collection

The Heritage Collection presents a line of premium quality hats developed by Akubra.

AUTHENTIC The felt in these hats is made from a select blend of specially graded furs of rabbit and hare which permits a longer and more arduous shrinking process. This process develops 25% more shrinkage, producing a denser and stronger felt, which in turn provides the basis for a superb pounced finish. The roan leather for the sweatbands is tanned from select sheepskins, for an exceptional quality. The bands themselves are cut wider than normal to ensure the greatest comfort. The Heritage Collection hats are in all ways premium hats in the Akubra tradition, superb long lasting felt with outstanding leather sweatbands.

Akubra Hats® have been Australia's quality hats since the early 1900's, when Arthur P. Stewart set up to make a hat to meet the needs of this bustling new colony. Australians needed hard wearing hats with wider brims than the usual European brims, to protect them from the sun and rain. Akubra soon became known for the durability and comfort of their fur felt hats, and recognized throughout the world for the Australian styling with a flair that reflects the independent, confident, and sometimes adventurous spirit of the dinkum Australian. Akubra's reputation is built on the long lasting quality of their fur felt and the comfort of their reeded roan leather sweatbands. Choose one of Akubra's premium quality Heritage Collection hats or one of their traditional styles — all Akubras are great hats.

Akubra's Sweatbands The leather sweatband is the only part of the hat that touches the head, and thus is critical to comfort. Akubra uses roan leathers, full thickness sheepskin, tanned to be soft and absorbent. The leather is reeded, that is, supported by a thin impermeable strip of material with a thin plastic fibre encased in the edge. Reeding improves the fit and comfort of the sweatband and inhibits transfer of perspiration from the leather to the hat itself.

For these hats which require a box greater than one cubic foot, the cost to send back to David Morgan has jumped to upwards of $50. If you are interested in one of these styles, we do recommend you double check your hat size before purchasing.

Open Crown Hats Back when hat stores were common most hats were sold with open crowns. The crease, or bash, would be put in for the customer by the salesman at the time of purchase. These days, hat stores are hard to find and almost all hats sold have pre-creased crowns. For those of you who still want an individualized bash, we offer a number of open crown hats from Akubra. Shape the crown to suit you best, then, when the hat is damp from the rain, make any final adjustments and let the hat dry. We include instructions with each hat or check online at davidmorgan.com for more information and instructional videos.

Wearing and Caring for Your Akubra Akubra Hats are made to be worn by active outdoors people. They are made to give full satisfaction during years of service through sun and rain. There is no need to baby your Akubra, but if you treat it with understanding, it will look better and last longer.

Do not pick up your hat by pinching the crown, either at the top or front. Pinching will flex the felt, and eventually cause a hole or crack to develop in the felt. It is best to pick up the hat either by the front and back of the brim, or by placing the thumbs inside the leather sweat band at the sides with the fingers just touching the outside edge of the brim.

Rain or sun do not harm a pure fur felt Akubra. There is no need for plastic rain covers — these merely keep the felt from breathing properly and so make your head uncomfortable. Do not heat a wet hat. Heat will shrink the felt, as well as the leather. Stand the hat upside down on its crown, or hang on a hook in a cool place and let it dry naturally. Wet felt retains the shape in which it dries, so make sure the brim and crown are shaped as you want them before drying. Do not leave a hat standing flat on its brim, as this will distort the brim. Never put your hat on the back ledge of your car or truck in the sun, as the heat may shrink and damage the leather sweatband. If your hats must of necessity be dried or stored under warm conditions, storing the hat on a hat stretcher, set to your hat size, will be beneficial.

Dust and grime are bound to accumulate on a hat under any normal conditions. Dust can be removed by brushing with a soft brush. Always brush with the nap, in a counterclockwise direction. Dust can also be removed by wiping the hat with a damp (not wet) towel.

Brim Brush The hatter's brim brush is designed to brush a hat efficiently. Brush counter-clockwise to remove dust and grime. Used regularly a brim brush will add years to the life of your hat. If you own both light and dark colored hats, we suggest using two brim brushes, one for light colors, one for dark as we do here at David Morgan.

Determining Your Hat Size Heads come in all sizes and in a surprising variety of shapes. Although fur felt hats, such as the Akubras we carry, are adaptable, and will usually conform to differences in shape with a little wearing, it is essential that the size be correct for the head.

To determine your hat size, measure the circumference around your head, keeping the tape level and firm, across the temples and above the eyebrow ridges. If you do not have a tape measure, download, print and assemble our hat tape found at davidmorgan.com/hat_tape.pdf. Check the size chart given below. For in-between measurements use the next size up. For hats offered in S-M-L increments, determine your hat size first, then check to see which increment covers your hat size, as this often varies from one manufacturer to another. For the lightweight fabric hats for hot weather use you may prefer a hat a little larger than your normal size.

Inches:	21½	21½	21¾	22¼	22½	23	23½	23¾	24¼	24½	25	25½
Metric Hat Size:	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61	62	63	64	65
US Hat Size:	6¾	6¾	7	7½	7¼	7¾	7½	7¾	7¾	7¾	8	8½
Our Panama Hats:	S		M		L		XL		XXL

Check the Fit When your hat arrives, check the fit before wearing to make sure you have ordered the correct size. Our hat manual (included with each hat) will assist:

1. The sweatband inside the hat should fit securely on the head without binding.
2. For some in-between sizes, and for some head shapes, greater comfort may be attained by placing felt pads inside the sweatband. Felt pads are enclosed with our Akubra and Panama hats, the Wool Felt Hiker and the Lizard Head hat.
3. The top of the crown should not be so low that it touches the top of your head and prevents the hat from coming down far enough to seat properly. If it does, with a leather or cloth hat you may need a smaller size. With an Akubra fur felt hat the top can be adjusted.

If you do find the size is not right, please give us a call before exchanging or returning. We have over 50 years' experience helping customers measure their heads and fit their hats. Heads come in all shapes and sizes, and sometimes judicious use of felt hat pads (included with each Akubra purchase), altering to a long oval or raising the crown will solve a fit issue.

Exchanges and Returns If the hat does not fit, recheck your hat size, and exchange your hat for the correct size. Hats in unused condition with all tags can be returned within 90 days of purchase for exchange or full refund of product price. The cost to return the hat to us is the customer's responsibility. Our $9 handling charge covers your first exchange (if needed). If you live in the greater Seattle area, exchanges and returns can be completed at our Bothell, Washington store.

Hat Pads Felt hat pads may be placed under the sweatband of a hat to adjust the fit. A hat should fit comfortably, and feel secure but not binding. Where a hat is a little loose, felt hat pads will tighten the fit. We include felt pads with our Akubra hats and our Panama hats. For those needing felt pads for other hats, or replacement pads, we offer two 6 x 1 x ¼ inch felt pads. The pads can be easily cut to the desired size.

American Hat Makers Gary Watrous started American Hat Makers in the early 1970's. With an investment of $20 in leather and $20 in leather working tools, he began making belts, wallets, and purses and selling them from the back of his 1963 Chevy station wagon. In the mid 70's, Gary created a leather hat for his own use. He loved it so much that hats quickly became his calling and sole artistic focus. His son Garth became a partner in American Hat Makers in 2005. The family owned company is based in Watsonville, California.

Care of leather hats: Leather hats are durable and long lasting. Leather will shrink if heated so never dry a wet hat with heat. As with any hat, we suggest storing it on a hat stretcher (page 12) to best maintain the size. A light coating of Pecard Leather Dressing (page 61) every six months will help maintain the fine appearance of your leather hat.

Conner Hats headed by Will Conner, is a continuation of the legacy of his father Bill's business, BC Hats. Will's travels as a young man gave him an appreciation for how humans affect the world. Will makes it company policy to tread lightly and consider the wider outcome of business decisions. "I believe we can make a positive change," Will says. "Thoughtful actions can improve the health of business while reducing negative impact on cultures and ecosystems alike. Our goal is to promote long-term thinking and to really consider future generations with every product we create and every decision we make as a brand." The wool used in Conner Hats is cruelty-free. Recycled and organic materials are used wherever possible. both in the hats and packaging.

Fur Felt or Wool Felt? We offer both! Felt, created by using heat, agitation and moisture to tightly interlock fibers in all directions, is one of the lightest fabrics known in relation to its tensile strength.

The rabbit and hare fur used in the Akubra fur felt hats we offer (pages 3 through 11) is the downy-under-fur, not the long, coarse hair commonly called fur. This under-fur has tiny barb-like projections on the surface of each fiber and these barbs interlock to make strong felt.

Wool fibers, coarser than the fur fibers, also have these tiny barbs and can be felted, although not as tightly as fur felt. Fur felt hats, such as our Akubras, are generally longer lasting, lighter weight, thinner, smoother and more durable than wool felt hats. Quality wool felt hats are markedly cheaper to produce than fur felt hats, and can be a great choice for a casual hat.

Panama Hats Panamas are the classic hot weather hat. Popularized by world leaders such as Napoleon III, Teddy Roosevelt and Kruschev they remain a standard today for men and women who need lightweight protection from the sun.

The bodies for our Panama hats are hand woven in Ecuador from toquilla fiber, the finest of the straws used in hats. The bodies are tightly woven to ensure good protection from the sun. A substantial fiber is selected to produce a firm hat that holds its shape well. These hats are great for hot sunny weather but not suitable for use in the rain.

The Panamas are sized as follows:

S (6¾ - 6⅞)

M (7-7⅙)

L (7¼-7⅜)

XL (7½-7⅝)

Tilley Endurables Tilley Endurables started in 1980 when Alex Tilley needed a good hat for sailing and couldn't find one, and decided to make one himself. He spared no effort, sought advice from a milliner, sailmaker and hat maker, and, as he says "got it right". Only afterwards, when he saw that he had an outstanding hat, did he decide to sell it through stores. The sale of the original hat, and expansion into a range of hats and travel ware, has benefited from Alex Tilley's imagination and insistence on outstanding quality.

Tilley Airflo Hat The Tilley Airflo Hat, made from 100% recycled nylon with a PFC Free durable water repellent finish, will provide lightweight protection from the sun while blocking UV rays and will also repel rain. The mesh incorporated in the crown is a distinctive feature and allows air circulation on the hottest days. The stitched brim is 3½ inches front and back, 2½ at the sides. There are adjustable ties for use on windy days and a Hydrofil® sweatband for comfort. The Velcro closure on the small pocket in the crown means a key, card, or cash can be safely kept with you. The weight is about 4 oz. Machine wash, air dry. UPF rating 50+. Color is Khaki with Olive under-brim. Designed in Canada, made in China by Tilley Endurables.

Qiviut – The Wonder-Wool from the Arctic Qiviut (pronounced "kiv-ee-ute") is the warm, soft under-fur of the musk ox, the warmest, softest wool known. The qiviut we offer here is handknitted into scarves and caps by the Eskimo women of the Oomingmak Musk Ox Producers' Co-operative in Alaska. Supply of these marvelous goods became a possibility only when John Teal in 1964 started the Musk Ox Project to bring together re-establishment of the musk ox in Alaska and relief from abject poverty for the Eskimo in the outlying coastal villages. A domestic herd of musk oxen was established, from which the qiviut could be combed each spring for spinning into yarn. Today knitting qiviut is a culture-friendly source of cash income for the coastal villagers, supplying a unique product from a growing arctic resource. We at David Morgan are pleased to be selected as the first of the mail order companies in the lower forty-eight states to be able to offer this outstanding product.

#2101 Qiviut Smoke Ring (Nachaq).....$215

Qiviut Smoke Ring The Qiviut Smoke Ring or Nachaq is a seamless cylinder of lacy knitted qiviut yarn. It may be worn just around the neck or around the neck and drawn up over the head as a hood. The name Smoke Ring was chosen for this innovative accessory since the qiviut is so soft and comfortable it is hardly noticeable except for its warmth. The Smoke Ring is elegant, but so practical it will become your first choice for everyday use in cold weather. It is about 18" tall and 24" in circumference. The color is natural brown. Weight is about 1.4 ounces. Made in USA.

Harpoon Pattern The smoke rings are hand knitted in the Harpoon pattern from Mekoryuk on Nunivak Island. The pattern is derived from a 1,200 year-old ivory harpoon head found on the island.

Heavyweight Qiviut Smoke Ring The Heavy-weight Qiviut Smoke Ring or Nachaq is knitted from yarn that is about 75% heavier than our #2101 Smoke Ring but is otherwise identical, ideal when you need more warmth. It is about 18" tall and 24" in circumference. The color is natural brown. Weight is about 2.5 ounces. Made in USA.

#2108 Heavyweight Qiviut Smoke Ring.....$300

Please note: Each qiviut accessory is handknitted by a member of the Oomingmak Musk Ox Producers' Co-operative. Although the same pattern and number of stitches is used, the final measurements will vary with the tension of the individual knitter.

Ruf Duck® Ruf Duck Rain Gear is made in the Northwest, where people know rain. Designed by a retired logger, these garments are durable, lightweight and functional, suitable for the toughest outdoor environments. Over the past 20 years, Ruf Duck has developed a following with dairymen, commercial fishermen, and others who need practical rain gear. The fabric is made on the East Coast to Ruf Duck's specifications. Flame-resistant oxford nylon, 200 denier, was chosen because it is stronger than conventional weaves and lightweight. The nylon fabric is coated with a proprietary polyurethane waterproof film. The waterproofing is on the inside, protected from wear. The seams are double-stitched and reinforced in the back with extra vinyl to prevent leakage through the seams. The design of the garment acts like bellows, circulating out perspiration laden air as you walk and work. The Ruf Duck Rain Gear is 100% waterproof.

Hooded Rain Jacket The jacket has a snap closure double storm flap, and no pockets or cuffs to catch water or chemicals. The body and sleeves are long to provide plenty of coverage. Possum Care Machine wash cold (gentle cycle), dry flat. For best results, we suggest using a wool detergent such as Woolly Wash.

Woolly Wash is a gentle hand or machine washing liquid for all your woolens and delicate garments. It contains lanolin, which protects clothing fibers just as it protects the coats of sheep. Contains 5 to 15% surfactants. The remaining 85% is lanolin, fragrance and preservatives. It is biodegradable. Use one capful for front load washers and two capfuls for top load washers. Each bottle has sufficient detergent for about 12 to 25 loads. Made in England.

The Australian possum, a small arboreal marsupial, was introduced to New Zealand by European settlers in the late 1800's. Possums soon escaped and, with no natural predators, quickly multiplied to their peak population of around 80 million. The possums cause enormous ecological damage to plant and bird life in the native forests, threatening survival of native species including the kiwi. Humane harvesting of possums for their fur is one part of New Zealand's efforts to eradicate the Australian possum and preserve native environments. The possum population is now around 30 million, or about 7 possums for each New Zealander.

Stanfield's Ltd. Stanfield's is a long established woolen mill, founded in 1856 in Prince Edward Island and later moved to Nova Scotia. They specialize in underwear and obtained a boost in sales with the Yukon gold rush and the Trail of '98. Stanfield's expansion to shirts and cotton garments provides garments suitable for year 'round wear.

Authentic 80/20 Heavy Weight Underwear The old loggers in the Pacific Northwest wore knitted wool underwear, unsurpassed for working in damp, cold conditions. This heavy rib knit is a blend of 80% wool, 20% nylon for easy care, absorbent comfort, warmth, and longer wear. A combination of white and black yarn gives the underwear its distinctive gray appearance. It is a popular choice with outdoorsmen, both workers and sportsmen. The drawers (not shown) have a double seat, an elastic waist band, and leg gussets give thighs extra room for proper fit. They are ankle length and finished with ribbed cuffs. The union suit has a full button front, inset shoulders, rib collar and cuffs, and a single button flap over seat. Color is a Gray mix. Made in Canada by Stanfield's.

80/20 Woolens Care For best results machine wash in cold water (no bleach) and lay flat to dry. If tumble dried (low heat) expect about 5% shrinkage. The garments are generously sized to accommodate this shrinkage and will soften with each washing.

80/20 Tops The 80/20 top is known in Canada as the "Island Tuxedo", a versatile garment favored by fishermen and loggers. In addition to being worn as underwear, the 80/20 tops are a popular choice as work sweaters. The tops feature inset shoulders, a three button closure and ribbed cuffs. Back length of a size L(42/44) is 31 inches, longer than most sweaters, giving good protection over the hips. The three button placket front top (#1315) has a storm flap on the inside with a one button closure. Merino Wool Base Layer These garments are made from 100% New Zealand Merino wool which is naturally moisture-wicking, odor resistant, breathable, temperature-regulating, flame-retardant, stain-resistant, and anti-wrinkle. Warmer than the cotton underwear (page 33) and smoother and thinner than the 80/20 underwear (page 31), these are an excellent choice for a base layer. The long sleeve top has a crew neck, set in sleeves and a two needle hem at the waist and sleeves. The top is about 2 inches longer in the back than in the front. This generous back length, about 32 inches for a size L(42/44), will prevent the top from riding up or pulling out. The bottoms have a full length leg with a two needle hem for maximum warmth. The double-panel front allows for a no-gap fly. Machine wash (warm, no bleach). Tumble dry (medium heat). Color is Black. Made in Canada.

Cotton Underwear Much lighter than the 80/20 Underwear, this cotton underwear by Stanfield's is designed as an inner layer for cool weather. It is made of 100% combed cotton in a 1x1 rib knit. The seams are sewn using flatlock stitching, adding to comfort against the skin. The rib knit and spandex reinforced cuffs give the union suit some stretch for a good fit. The union suit has a full button front and an easy-to-use one-button flap seat. Leg gussets give thighs extra room for a proper fit and comfort while active. The long sleeve top has a crew neck. The generous length of the top, about 30 inches for a size L(42/44), will prevent it from riding up or pulling out. The shoulder and back neck seams are reinforced with tape for comfort and strength. Like the Union Suit, the Long Johns have gusseted legs. The back of the waistband is pushed for extra comfort. The double-panel front allows for a no-gap fly. Machine wash (warm, no bleach). Tumble dry (medium heat). Colors are Gray or Red (Union Suit only). Made in Canada.

Prison Blues — Made on the Inside to be worn on the Outside®

Prison Blues was formed by the State of Oregon in 1989 as a way to create jobs for the Oregon Correctional Institution. The factory, located at the Eastern Oregon Correctional Institution in Pendleton, Oregon, is 47,000 square feet and produces many garments including shirts, jeans and hats.

Each inmate must pass a detailed hiring process. They are then trained by managers with private industry experience. By purchasing a Prison Blues garment, you get a quality product made by inmates who take pride in their work. You are also supporting a program that teaches inmates valuable working skills that they need to become contributing members of society.

Hickory Shirt Loggers in the Pacific Northwest have an unusually durable shirt for their work, the Hickory Shirt. The material is a tightly woven 100% cotton. ing the logging trucks in and out of the forest. The back length of a size Large (44) is 33 inches. Color is the traditional narrow white and navy stripes. Made in USA of imported fabric.

Today they are in the forefront in modern sock manufacture.

Sock Sizing J.B. Field's wool socks and Arriva socks are made to stretch and adapt readily. If you are at the top of the range for a size, and your foot is wide, take the next size up. If you are at the bottom of the range for a size, and your foot is narrow, take the next size down.

Geier Glove Company has been making driving and work gloves here in the state of Washington for over 90 years. Their leather gloves are known throughout the West for quality in fit and wear. The Geier gloves we offer are made in the Gunn pattern. The seams along the fingers are at the back to provide longer wear, leaving a smooth surface where the fingers apply stress. There is a seam on the inside at the base of the two central fingers. Except on the light-weight gloves, welts are used on the seams of the thumb and base of fingers to protect the seams from wear. The thumb is the stick-out or wing pattern, for easy thumb movement. Full-grain deer, goat, kangaroo, bison and elkskins are used. Some natural irregularities may be found, but any imperfections lowering the wearing qualities are avoided in cutting out the leather.

#510 Driving Glove (Gold)

Welch Suspenders The Welch Company has been manufacturing suspenders in Portland, Oregon, since 1967. Their suspenders are recognized for quality and reliability. Traditionally, in the Northwest, anyone showing up to join a logging crew wearing a belt instead of suspenders was sent home as too green to work with the crew. We offer a selection of Welch suspenders to suit a variety of needs. The elastic in each suspender is the best of its type, and each is selected for stretch and wear characteristics to suit the specific style of suspender. All Welch suspenders are made in the USA.

Ends Leather ends are flat and riveted to swivel so they may fit well. The leather used is the same oil-tanned leather used in the uppers of the best logging and work boots of the Northwest. It is strong, durable, and supple, allowing easy attachment to buttons. The oversized gator clip is firm and reliable, nickel plated to withstand the weather.

Suspender Sizing Suspender length is measured from the suspender buttons or clip ends on the front over the shoulder to that on the back on the opposite side.

The Regular (46") suspenders adjust from 46 inches to about 38 inches, and generally fit people under 6 feet tall. The Extra Long (54") suspenders adjust from 54 inches to about 42 inches. Those under 6 feet tall may prefer the Extra Long suspenders if they have a larger girth or wish to keep the adjustment clasp up relatively high on their torso.

X or Y The choice between "Y" Back or "X" Back suspenders is primarily a matter of personal preference. The same suspender button spacing is used for both styles, so the two styles can be used interchangeably. Some folks feel the "Y" Back style is more comfortable if you are engaged in heavy physical activity which involves sideways movement of the torso, such as swinging a scythe. However, in most circumstances there is little difference in functionality between the "X" Back and "Y" Back suspenders.

Tuff Stuff Suspenders These extra-heavy duty suspenders are made from Tuff Stuff, a heavy duty polyester elastic webbing with low elasticity that provides durable and dependable support. Gator clip ends or flat leather ends. The "Y" Back Suspenders have a leather cross patch reinforcing the critical wear-zone at the webbing intersection. 2 inches wide. Crocodilians The effort to save the crocodilians is the outstanding success story of the world's wildlife conservation movement. Of the 23 species all but a few are in good numbers in their native ranges, many with large farming operations providing skins and meat while helping to protect and expand wild populations. Effective programs are in place ensuring the survival of those still considered to be in a less satisfactory state. For information on this subject, and the state of individual species, we suggest the following website: <http://www.crocodilian.com>.

Hornback Crocodile Belt These belts are made from the back strap or central back portion of the saltwater crocodile skin. The leather in this section is bone free in the saltwater crocodile, unlike that of other crocodilians, so the leather quality is uncompromised. The raised scutes give a three-dimensional quality, accentuated by the tanning and dyeing process. Each belt shows a gradation in the scutes from neck to tail, since each is made without joins from a single skin. The belt is well finished with a cowhide backing, suitable for casual wear. The buckle is attached with Chicago screws. The solid brass (Brown belt) or nickel plated zinc (Black belt) buckle can be detached so you may use your favorite buckle. These hand cut belts vary in width from 1¼ to 1½ inches wide. Crocodile leather keeper. Colors are Black or Dark Brown. Made in Australia from farm raised saltwater crocodiles.

Crocodile Scutes The leather used in our crocodile belt and hat bands is cut from the back portion of farm-raised saltwater crocodiles. The raised scutes in this section are bone free in saltwater crocodiles so the leather quality is uncompromised. The scutes, which function as armor and as heat exchangers for the crocodiles, add a three dimensional element to the leather, as shown to the left in our Hornback Crocodile Belt. The natural variation in the crocodile leather makes each of our belts, hat bands and wallets unique.

The interior of the wallet, including the fold out flap with ID window and card slot is thin, strong kangaroo leather.

Bronze Buckles These belt buckles are cast in bronze using the “lost wax” investment casting method. Each buckle made in this age-old jeweler’s technique must first be made in wax. The wax buckle is then “invested” or covered with a plaster of paris slurry and allowed to dry. It is then placed in a computer controlled electric kiln that slowly ramps up the temperature, eventually reaching 1500 degrees Fahrenheit for several hours before dropping back to 900 degrees. This process takes about 22 hours. During this process, all the wax in the plaster mold is burned out or “lost”, the result is a cavity into which the molten metal is poured in. The 900 degree plaster mold is placed in a vacuum chamber and a powerful pump draws a vacuum on the hot plaster mold as the metal is poured in. This vacuum process creates greater detailed castings with a minimum of feeder gates to the piece. After cooling, the buckle casting is broken from the mold. At this point, the casting is black from the oxidation of the molten bronze and must be carefully ground, tooled and polished to achieve the final gleaming finish. The final finishing and tooling marks reflect the individuality of each buckle and attests to the craftsmanship involved in its unique creation.

Cordon y Cuero Cordon y Cuero was founded and operated for years by the husband/wife team of Larry and Jaya Knapp. Larry and Jaya spent time in Ibeza, Spain in the 1970's where they learnt the skills of leather craftsmanship. The Knapps returned to the US, locating in Taos, New Mexico where they continued to produce sophisticated leatherwork. Their daughter, Anyma, is now taking over operation of the company, continuing to produce fine leatherwork.

❖ David Morgan is pleased to offer an extensive selection of braided goods. Our interest in leather braiding arose in the early 1960s from contact with some of the last of the Australian whipmakers trained as apprentices in the Victorian craft of hand braiding. The Australians worked in kangaroo leather, the finest leather available for braiding. Since that time we have offered a selection of braided leather goods, largely in kangaroo hide, and largely in the Australian style of work. Only a few leather craftsmen combine the skills honed by experience with the desire to do exceptional work. Fewer still have access to a market which is sufficiently sophisticated to appreciate the time and effort needed for work of this calibre.

We continue to produce quality braided goods in our leather workshop in Bothell, Washington. Our 450 Series bull whips have acquired fame from their appearances in several movies, including the Indiana Jones movies and the Mask of Zorro. Our complete selection of braided goods can be found online at davidmorgan.com.

Braided Kangaroo Leather Belts Finely braided belts were a traditional specialty of the Australian whipmakers. In cutting a kangaroo skin for a whip, the center of the skin was often left too small for a second whip. This leather, the prime part of the skin, was ideal for belts. The usual style was a cinch ring belt with two harness rings or dees. The individual strands are turned over as they are braided past the end section, so that the grain side of the leather remains on the outside where the end folds back at the dees. The dees are attached by back-braiding the strands in the belt. There are no stitches to give way, no eyelets to tear, and the belt is continuously adjustable. We have brought this craft to America so that you may enjoy wearing these belts, fine examples of traditional craftsmanship at its best. The belts are available in Natural Tan, Black, or a Two-tone of natural tan and black strands. The Natural Tan darkens with sunlight and time. Our own production, hand crafted in the USA.

Watch Lanyard

The old-style watch lanyard has been used for many years by those who carry pocket watches or stop watches. The loops are of different widths. For most watches the narrow loop attaches more neatly. To give longer wear the wide loop may be attached to the watch where the bail is sufficiently large. Either loop attaches readily to the belt loop. The overall length is 12 inches. Pecard Leather Dressing Pecard Leather

Dressing, quietly manufactured in Wisconsin since 1902, is the jewel among the many leather dressings on the market today. It is based on a petroleum lubricant similar to vaseline, with additions of selected waxes including beeswax. It is a dressing which penetrates the leather, allows the fibers to bend and move without chafing and breaking, coats the fibres to inhibit oxidation, and helps maintain a desirable level of moisture in the leather. It is chemically neutral, carrying neither salts nor harsh solvents, and does not decompose to form damaging agents. It is an economical dressing — there are no volatile carrier agents such as water or kerosene to dilute the lubricant. Pecard Leather Dressing is the dressing used by the knowledgeable collectors of leather items and museum conservators.

Fine leather deserves good care. We recommend Pecard Leather Dressing for: leather luggage; fine leather goods; handbags; saddlery; boots and shoes; motorcycle leather; antique leather; leather furniture and leather car seats.

Braiding Supplies Vegetable tanned kangaroo leather has about four times the tensile strength of equivalent cowhide, and is by far the best leather for fine leather braiding. We supply both skins and lace. Excess kangaroos are harvested in Australia under programs approved by both the Australian and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife authorities. The leather we offer is in a high strength full grain bark (vegetable) tannage, a premium selection for minimum scarring. We offer drum stuffed skins, that is with grease worked into the leather in heated rotating drums. Drum stuffing provides an even distribution of grease in the amount needed to ensure optimum properties of the leather. The natural color skins are a light tan color as received from the tannery, but darken with sunlight. The black and whiskey skins are tannery dyed, and are black or whiskey through the skin.

Kangaroo Skins The skins come in three weights: light (under about 0.8 mm thick), suitable for fine braiding; medium (about 0.8 mm), suitable for belts, stock-whips and most horse gear; and heavy (about 1.00 mm), suitable for belts and heavier gear and whips. Skins are measured in square decimeters. 10 square decimeters equal 1.076 square feet. Skins range in size from about 45 to 75 dm² depending on the weight and color. Colors are Natural Tan and Black in all weights, Whiskey in heavy weight only.

Kangaroo Lace Our premium quality kangaroo lace is hand cut from well trimmed drum stuffed skins, square cut so it may be pared to suit the work in hand. Cutting lace by hand avoids most flaws and permits more continuous cutting. The lace is in 60 foot balls, usually continuous but may have one join. Colors are Natural Tan and Black in all weights, Whiskey in heavy weight only.

The 1/8 inch lace is available in three weights: Light (under about 0.8 mm thick), suitable for fine braiding; Medium (about 0.8 mm), suitable for horse gear; and Heavy (about 1.00 mm), suitable for belts and heavier gear and whips.

Kangaroo Lace, Machine Cut This lace is machine cut in Australia, and is a superior quality. This lace is a less greasy craft lace, not drum stuffed, so should be heavily greased with Pecard Leather Dressing before braiding. The machine cut lace is cut in circles and is spliced where flawed. It is square cut and has about two to three joins per 50 meters (164 feet), up to six joins per 100 meters (328 feet). We advise stretching this lace before using it in order to evaluate uniformity. Colors are Tan, Whiskey or Black. The Tan is very lightly dyed to give a uniform color that will not discolor over time.

Celtic Design Jewelry The Celts, whose lands spread across Europe from Hungary to Ireland two thousand years ago, left a rich legacy of art. They were skilled metal workers, with a strong interest in gold, silver and bronze ornaments for themselves and for their horse trappings. In Wales, where the language and culture survive with unbroken continuity from those early times, the Celtic design tradition is still part of the living heritage. Our Celtic jewelry is drawn from both modern Welsh and older Celtic sources, with design as timely today as it was two thousand years ago.

Our sterling silver Celtic jewelry is either lost wax castings or stamped pieces made in the USA. Our sterling silver pendants come with sterling silver chains. Our gold Celtic jewelry pieces are hand polished lost wax castings, made in the USA. The gold pendants are sold without chains. Chains are offered separately on page 76. The jewelry is sent to you gift boxed, and most pieces come with a card explaining the background of the design.

St. Brynach's Cross The great cross at Nanhyfer in Dyfed, Wales was carved in the 10th or 11th century. The stone cross stands thirteen feet high with a 24½ inch diameter head. The church of St. Brynach, in the yard of which this cross stands, was founded by St. Brynach in the 6th century.

St. Brynach's Cross The St. Brynach's Cross is set in Celtic style against the circle of the sun, and ornamented with the endless ribbon of eternity. The design is deeply incised. Like the original stone cross, the pendant is double sided. Bronze. The solid bronze cross has a fabric cord is adjustable from 18 to 36 inches. The sterling silver pendant (page 65) has a 24 inch sterling silver chain. Made in USA.

Celtic Sailor's Knot When Celtic sailors spent months at sea, they would often spend their free time weaving rope mementoes for their loved ones. The knot is elegantly executed in 14 kt. gold or Sterling silver in this necklet and matching leverback earrings. Made in USA. Shown full size.

Wildlife in Bronze — Jewelry Designs by Cavin Richie

Cavin Richie grew up in Colorado surrounded by the natural beauty of the Rocky Mountains. He moved to Washington State in 1970 and has lived near the sea ever since. Cavin's designs are a reflection of his surroundings. His line includes birds, mammals and amphibians, all accurately detailed. For the past thirty years he has carved with shed elk antler and woolly mammoth ivory. These carvings became the basis for his lost wax casting jewelry. "Carving," says Cavin "is like touching antiquity. I feel a kinship with a long lineage of carvers dating back to the Pleistocene."

In 2013 David Morgan purchased the Cavin Richie jewelry line, allowing Cavin to devote more time to his carving and one of a kind sculptures and artwork. We are pleased to offer these solid bronze lost wax castings. A patina complements the earthy metal, giving each piece a unique finish. The fishhook earrings have hypoallergenic (gray niobium) hooks. Pendants have an adjustable fabric cord. All the Wildlife in Bronze jewelry is designed by Cavin Richie, cast in the US and hand finished here in Washington state.

Some of Cavin Richie's designs are well suited to casting in silver and gold. Without the patinas used with the bronze castings, the sterling silver or 14 kt gold still show the incredible detail of Cavin's work.

Hummingbird The dark beak and bronze gorget set off the green patina on this hummingbird in flight. Heishi beads and polished stones complement the antiqued sterling silver with toggle clasp. Total necklace length is 24 inches. Matching earrings have a copper bead and gray niobium fishhooks. Bronze.

The Wildlife in Bronze jewelry, including the Hummingbird Necklace, is sent to you gift boxed, with information about the piece.

Silver Seasons Michael Michaud's love of nature and his exceptional knowledge of jewelry making inspired him to launch the Silver Seasons Collection. He has perfected the technique of creating models from natural botanical elements and, after the models are made, manipulating these "copies of nature" into his jewelry. Using primarily bronze, natural stones and hand-formed glass, the Silver Seasons jewelry we offer is renowned for its craftsmanship and beauty, handcrafted in New York.

Blackberries Michael Michaud was inspired by a wallpaper design entitled "Bramble" when creating this jewelry. The wallpaper design was first produced in 1879 and is in the Victoria and Albert Collection. This highly-detailed statement necklace has five blackberries topped with gold-patinaed bracts and several patinaed leaves. The size of each berry is ½ inch long and ½ inch wide. The full size of the drop from the chain is 3 inches. The chain is adjustable from 16 inches to 18 inches with 8 adjustment rings. Closes with a lobster claw fastener. The bronze is hand-patinaed and the berry is hand-formed glass. The chain is gold-filled. The matching earrings have gold-filled fishhooks. Handcrafted in the USA.

Argillite Reproductions The Haida carvings in argillite are some of the finest presentations of totemic art. These reproductions are well made from original work in Canada, made in a natural resin composite with the heft and finish of the originals. These museum quality reproductions of the older work are available in a range of styles that can be more casually displayed so that the art can be enjoyed on an everyday basis. The reproductions are made by Boma, a Canadian company producing a range of collectibles and giftware.

Bear-Halibut Totem Pole This totem pole reproduction shows the bear with the halibut. Height is 5 inches, color is argillite black. Natural resin composite. Made in Canada.

Frog Bowl Wooden bowls were in common use to hold oil to accompany food and were often elaborately carved. Small grease bowls were often in the shape of frogs. Argillite bowls were made specifically for the trade in scrimshaw work where argillite commanded a much higher price than wood. This reproduction is 3¾ inches in length. Color is argillite black. Natural resin composite. Made in Canada.

#B221 Frog Bowl $62

The reproductions on this page are all from the Canadian Museum of History's Haida Gwaii Collection. Haida Gwaii means 'Islands of the People' in the Haida language and refers to the Queen Charlotte Islands. The museum is located in Gatineau, Quebec.

Sea Wolf The original Sea Wolf carving, a mythical creature, was carved in argillite by Ed Russ in 1997. 2¾ inches high, 4¾ inches long and 1 inch wide. Color is argillite black. Natural resin composite. Made in Canada.

Raven Totem Pole This is a reproduction of an argillite totem pole in the Canadian Museum of History's Haida Gwaii collection. The original argillite totem pole was collected in 1905. It shows the raven and bear. Height is 7½ inches, color is argillite black. This museum quality reproduction is made from a natural resin composite to attain the heft of the argillite original. Made in Canada.

Clam Shell Box This Clam Shell Box is a small reproduction of an argillite box or casket in the Canadian Museum of Civilization collection. Ornately carved cedar boxes were common amongst the tribes of the Pacific Northwest, and were made also for the scrimshaw trade. Some of the finest were done in argillite. The original rather large argillite box was first ascribed to Charles Edenshaw by Marius

Barbeau, but later research indicates that it was made by John Robson, the stepfather of Edenshaw. The lid shows the people coming out of the clam shell, flanked on both sides by a frog and bear. The front shows a bear, the rear the mosquito crest. The ends show the beaver. The size of the Clam Shell Box is 7½ x 4½ x 5 inches, suitable for desk use. Color is argillite black. Natural resin composite. Made in Canada.

#B303 Clam Shell Box $320

Raven Traveling Trivet This delightful trivet shows Raven paddling his magic canoe, which could shrink to the size of a pine needle or expand to hold the universe. It is made from recycled glass and is heat resistant to 340 degrees Fahrenheit. Designed to be used, the trivet has protective felt dots on the back to prevent scratching fine surfaces. Alternatively, the trivet can be displayed as art — a small hole is drilled in the back for easy hanging. Size is 7½ by 7¾ inches. Color is Rosewood. Designed by Andrew Williams. Made in Canada by Boma.

#B442 Raven Traveling Trivet $46

The interior of the box is 3½ by 2½ inches, suitable for storing jewelry.

Otter Spirit Box Sea Otter is the spirit of playfulness. He teaches us the need for lightheartedness and to enjoy the world around us. This spirit box was designed by Tom McPhee, a non-Indian Canadian artist. His spirit boxes resemble the Indian grease bowls, but are a new interpretation of the art. Color is Rosewood. Size is 4 x 3 x 4 inches. This museum quality piece is made from a crushed marble and natural resin composite which undergoes multiple polishing and highlighting steps to develop the uniquely rich and warm finish. Made in Canada.
